

Judith Muster

Vita

Judith Muster (b. 1979) is a sociologist. Prior to joining Metaplan in 2011, she worked as a consultant at a mid-sized consulting firm where she held the position of deputy general manager. She consults on re-organization processes, digital transformation, strategy development, and project leadership. Her sector focus includes logistics companies, automobile manufacturing, and media companies. Additionally, she researches, teaches and publishes in the areas of data-driven decisions and post-bureaucratic organisation units in bureaucratic organisations at the faculty for organisational sociology at the University of Potsdam.

Personal interests

Self-organizing systems is a passion of Judith when she's not at Metaplan and a topic she enjoys investigating and discussing – for example how they occur in groups of people using social media, protest organizations, subcultures, or even within the family unit. Any remaining time is spent playing the clarinet or reading.
