

Kin Ho Wong

Vita

Kin Ho Wong holds a Mechanical Engineering degree from the National University of Singapore, and an MBA (finance & marketing) from the University of California at Berkeley.

Kin Ho's expertise is in strategic management, communication and soft-skills development. His "real world" insights have been gained by consulting in business development, marketing, strategic planning, and developing organization in multiple industries and in a broad range of situations and contexts. Kin Ho has lived and worked in Hong Kong, Taiwan, USA, Singapore, and now China for extended periods of time. His professional career is grounded in working in dynamic markets, multi-functional and cross-cultural settings.

Kin Ho joined Metaplan in 2015. Before becoming a consultant and moderator, Kin Ho was a senior leader in an established e-Learning company. He has worked for Singapore's container port operator, PSA Corporation, handling terminal service contracts with global shipping companies. Earlier in his career, Kin Ho worked for Hewlett-Packard as a manufacturing engineer. After his MBA in early 90s, Kin Ho lived in Silicon Valley USA where he worked in investment banking.
